Sat 3 One of today's readings – Leviticus 25.1, 8-17 – tells us about the year of Jubilee, the fiftieth year. In the Old Testament Jubilee is a radical concept – that every fiftieth year there will be a redistribution of property and wealth. This rooted in the conviction that everything is a gift from God anyway and that gifts are for sharing.

There is a real challenge for us, not just about property and money but about the whole way we understand the gifts God gives us. It is too easy to think that these are our possessions which we need to protect when of course they are always gifts for sharing.

Sat 28 Ember Day

“How regrettable it is, how unnatural in fact, that through the centuries the confessional stalls around the walls of many churches have received the secrets of so many sins, and have not been equally available for the confidences of men and women and children who have been overtaken by the ecstasies or insights or consolations that declare the reality of God!

Had this other side of personal experience been invited ... at least it might have redressed the balance and made the churches everywhere as mindful of divine initiative as of human failure.” John Taylor

Sat 10 Laurence, Deacon at Rome, Martyr. 258

Laurence the deacon is an early Christian martyr who is said to have died a particularly gruesome death.

But the action that is said to have led to his martyrdom is fantastic and a real challenge to quite a few of our values and practices. In a time of persecution officers were sent to seize the treasurers of Laurence's church. So Laurence brought out the widows and orphans of the Christian community and said "Well, here are our treasurers!"

How deeply can we respond today to Jesus' first sermon in Luke 4 and his final piece of discipleship training in Matthew 25? The radical demands of the Gospel.

Sat 21 Matthew, Apostle and Evangelist

Matthew is celebrated as the writer of the Gospel that bears his name (though of course the Gospel itself never claims to be by Matthew!)

He is also a fantastic example of God's love in Jesus Christ.

Matthew is a tax-collector and therefore hated by his Jewish people twice over: first because he is working for the Romans and secondly because fraud is built into the system, so he is a swindler.

But Jesus doesn't judge him. He loves him and then calls him to follow.

The Dioceses of Oke-Osun (Nigeria), Bukedi (Uganda) and Katsina (Nigeria)

Sat 17 In today's Gospel – Matthew 19.13-15 – Jesus rebukes the disciples for preventing children coming to him, with the words 'Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of heaven belongs.'

We are deeply afraid to let go and become children ourselves, welcomed by Jesus just as we are. In the words of the recently deceased Jean Vanier,
'All of us have a secret desire to be seen as saints, heroes, martyrs.
We are afraid to be children, to be ourselves....'

We human beings are all fundamentally the same. We all belong to a common, broken humanity. We all have wounded, vulnerable hearts.

Each one of us needs to feel appreciated and understood; we all need help.

Sat 14 Holy Cross Day

Today – Holy Cross Day – has unusual origins but at its heart is an invitation to gaze on the crucified God and know how much he loves us. In the words of the great preacher and teacher Austin Farrer: “Yet all [God’s] dear and infinite kindness is lost behind the mask of power.

Overwhelmed by omnipotence, we miss the heart of love. ....the weakness of God proves stronger than men, and the folly of God proves wiser than men. Love is the strongest instrument of omnipotence, for accomplishing those tasks he cares most dearly to perform; and this is how he brings his love to bear on human pride; by weakness not by strength, by need and not by bounty.”

PRAY for all those being ordained Deacon today, for their families and for the parishes where they serve.

- Sat 7 Tomorrow marks the birthday of Mary, the mother of Jesus. Mary has been seen in very different ways in the Christian tradition, so it's worth paying attention to what the New Testament says: she is a virgin, a word in the Old Testament that is always negative, unfruitful; she is unmarried; she sings an extraordinary version of the song of Hannah (a barren woman made fruitful by God) that challenges all our assumptions about human power and authority and looks forward to the profoundly subversive ministry of her son Jesus.

Sat 24 Bartholomew the Apostle
Today – the feast of Bartholomew – invites us to think about power and authority. We often construct the church as if it were a power structure. But today's Gospel could not say it stronger: "A dispute also arose among them as to which one of them was to be regarded as the greatest.

But he said to them, 'The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them; and those in authority over them are called benefactors. But not so with you; rather the greatest among you must become like the youngest, and the leader like one who serves.

For who is greater, the one who is at the table or the one who serves? Is it not the one at the table? But I am among you as one who serves." (Luke 22.24-27).

Sat 31 Aidan, Bishop of Lindisfarne, Missionary, 651

Celtic Christianity is largely an invention of the Romantic movement in the 19th century. The reality of what is sometimes referred to as “Celtic” was pretty challenging – huge night vigils chanting huge numbers of psalms; serious fasting; and extreme penitential discipline.

Aidan, the great monk from Iona who became Bishop of Holy Island in Northumberland is an extraordinarily radical example of this tradition – immersed in hours of liturgical prayer; addicted to walking across his vast diocese because that’s what ordinary people do; and giving away the king’s silverware when the poor came knocking. And an absolute determination not to use God – his great prayer when the Danes were attacking Bamburgh Castle was simply “Lord, look what they are doing”.
